

00:00:45 Liudmyla: Hello!

00:00:58 Liudmyla: My mic may or may not work :(

00:26:57 Richard: The school I'm working at are trying harder and harder to exert control over every class. One way they do this is through monthly discrete item tests that take low freq. vocabulary from the course book

00:27:26 Richard: The school do

00:27:32 Richard: The managers have a test writing team

00:27:58 Richard: I got rapped on the knuckles yesterday for not using the book in a surprise observation

00:28:16 Richard: I was teaching teens

00:28:26 Richard: And had them produce an advert

00:28:29 Richard: on google docs

00:28:39 Richard: For something in the class they wanted to sell

00:28:45 Richard: we get those

00:28:54 Richard: Pretty much

00:29:58 Richard: It's satisfactory or not

00:30:10 Liudmyla: We get KPI scores that have a direct impact on our salaries.

00:30:15 Richard: Oh no satisfactory but like yours had many negative comments

00:32:13 Richard: they liked it

00:32:48 Richard: no

01:10:51 Olya: What's the link to the article?

01:12:18 Olya: ah got it

01:12:40 sara: Thanks - your idea is terrific about sharing materials.

01:13:20 sara: but you have to set it up that there's not a lot of unnecessary material or irrelevant material - you need some type of quality control

01:13:30 sara: Good luck! :)

01:13:45 sara: maybe have people rate the tasks

01:14:27 sara: where do I find the forum? still a bit confused about it?